Use of cookies:

COOKIES POLICY

This website, fully owned by OKAASPAIN S.L. uses cookies, however when a user visits this website no personal data which may identify him/her is automatically registered. During navigation the system gathers a series of non-personally-identifying information through devices called "cookies" in order to facilitate the user the navigation and improve the management of the website. These data are eg: browser type, operating system, IP address, etc. The system also maintains the user anonymously identified in order to facilitate him/her browsing the website. This identification is maintained throughout the session until the user closes the browser.

The user can freely decide whether to introduce or not our cookies in his/her hard drive as well as their deletion, following the procedure established in the help section of his/her browser. The user can also set his/her browser to accept or reject all cookies by default, or to receive a notice of receipt of each cookie and decide, at that time, whether to introduce it or not in his/her hard drive.

The cookies used in this website which are not strictly necessary for the correct operation of the site are the following:

1. Cookies used for recording the preferences of the users :

SOURCE: Addthis, Google, Facebook

PURPOSE:

These cookies are associated to the AddThis social change widget, which is commonly embedded in the websites in order visitors are able to share contents with a variety of networking platforms for the exchange of information.
